Federal Tax Credit for Efficient JELD-WEN Windows & Doors

Finding Qualified JELD-WEN Products is Easy

Homeowners can now claim a 30% federal tax credit (up to $1,500) for upgrading their windows and exterior doors. JELD-WEN makes it easy. No need to sort through the stimulus plan or a long, complex lists of "qualifying products," simply

- Ask for the Energy Saver PLUS package for windows,
- Look for the Stimulus Tax Logo or
- Find an easy to read list of qualifying products at www.jeld-wen.com/taxcredit.

Energy Saver PLUS is an all encompassing package that makes it easy to select qualified windows and patio doors. For exterior doors, a wide variety of steel and fiberglass door options exist including decorative glass, blinds-between-the-glass and more.

How the New Federal Energy Tax Credit Works

The 25c - Non-Business Energy Property Tax Credit is an extension of the 2007 program, however the tax credit has increased to 30% (up to $1,500) of the window or door purchase price! The requirements for receiving a tax credit are as follows:

- The windows and doors must have a U-Value and a Solar Heat Gain Coefficient (SHGC) equal to or less than .30 to qualify.
- The products must be used to improve an existing home.
- The home must be the taxpayer's primary residence.
- The windows and doors must be installed and available for use between January 1, 2009 and December 31, 2010.

U-Value and SHGC Explained

These are the key measurements of the efficiency of a window or door.

U-Value: Measures how much heat escapes the home. The lower the number, the more heat is retained inside where it's needed. U-Values are important in colder climates.

SHGC: Measures how much solar radiation enters the home. The lower the number, the more heat is blocked. The SHGC is important in warmer climates.

How to Claim Your Tax Credit

Step 1: Purchase and install qualifying JELD-WEN windows and/or doors.

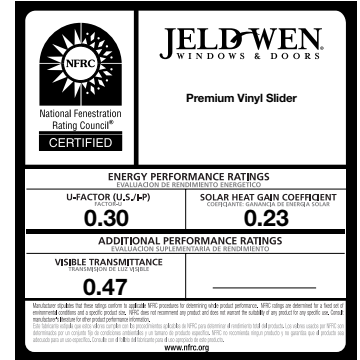

Step 2: Retain receipts that show the cost of the qualifying products and save the NFRC label (see example to the right) from each window or door. Keep these with your tax materials.

Step 3: Download our Manufacturer's Certification Statement from jeld-wen.com/taxcredit and keep it with your tax records.

Step 4: Submit the claim with your taxes for the year the windows and/or doors were installed.

This is not a rebate.

Please consult your tax advisor for full details.
